400 Students Protest

DST changes Criticized Here

The newly permanent Daylight Savings Time and what it does to the school hours headlined the topics of the discussion at a listening post conducted Tuesday by Dr. Joseph Carroll at Lakeview Junior High.

Parents, teachers and students complained to Carroll they were unhappy with young children forced to catch school buses before daylight and older students losing jobs because of newly scheduled hours.

Although the western area students were going to school a half hour later than usual this week, several citizens were still objecting to sending their children to school before daylight.

On the other hand, the student council president of both Glades Central High School and Pahokee High school turned out at Carroll to readjust school hours.

Glades Central Student Council President Ibrahim Alava presented Carroll a petition with more than 400 signatures complaining about starting classes a half hour later each day.

"The ones hurt the most are kids who have jobs in the afternoon," Alava said. "Some of their employers don't believe they can't get out at the same time they have to be getting out and let them be can find someone else."

Pahokee High Student Council President Barbara Shirley said she had been told by one student he will be losing a job of work a day and $15 in pay per week because school hours are not 9:15 a.m. to 3:45 p.m.

Alava said student athletes, who have traditionally left during the fifth period to participate in sports, would now have to leave in the third or fourth period.

They also brought up the fact many teachers commute from the coast and are now caught in rush hour traffic both coming and going.

The signers of the Glades Central petition urged Carroll to allow them to comply with the spirit of the energy conservation move by Congress by complying with the Daylight Savings Time section of the bill.

Okeechobee Housing Center Director Harvey Potts said children at the center must now catch the bus at 7:40 a.m. to get to school before daylight, and this is too dangerous.

Carroll said he hated to start off the meeting by passing the buck and going left, the decision of what to do about Daylight Savings Time to the four area superintendents.

West Area Superintendent James Maynor said the problem is making sure small children aren't forced to be out on the streets on the way to school before daylight while still making sure high school students don't get to work too late.

Carroll said the biggest difference in abilities is usually noticed by only two subjects, math and reading, and said the teachers could group their students by ability in those areas, provided they bring them back together for other subjects.

Maynor said the administrators in the western area of the county had misinterpreted the guidelines earlier in the year when they had already begun to make adjustments.

"Don't let federal guidelines stop you," Carroll said. "We'll do what we want and use the terms they require."

"Let's face it," he said, "the difference generally comes from the way we've set up the situation in the last months or a year."

Carroll said one of the problems of using standards to judge whether a student should be passed is that most fifth graders, for instance, aren't actually in the fifth grade. Most are either above or below the fifth grade level.

Answering a complaint about contract teaching, Carroll said this is a valid method of teaching because it helps build interest in the students.

Mrs. Jane Dougherty, one of the parents present, asked why contract teaching is being used when she said she had heard both students and teachers don't like it.

Carroll said the decision to use contract teaching, which the students are agreeing to work toward a given grade in a given subject, should be up to the individual teacher.

William Turley, a local teacher present at the meeting, said he is now using contract teaching for the first time and, while he needed help at first, it is proving to be very valuable.

"It provides a challenge for the better students," he said, "and keeps the interest of students who still hear that their ABC's in my science class."

In another area, Carroll explained an answer program the school board recently adopted to deal with whether extracurricular activities are being set up on a segregated basis.

He said he has noticed that in some schools, for instance, football has become a sport dominated by black students and that white students, who are interested in the sport, are being kept out.

He said if the administration does not actively segregate to be the case, a program would be instituted to encourage desegregation of the activities.

"But the key word here," he said, "is voluntary. The minute you say, 'you will, you kill the program.'"

Carroll also fielded questions from the group about such areas as parent-teacher organizations, tenure and whether school buses can be used to transport students who stay after school to take part in extracurricular activities.

He said the bus was not to be used for the first time and, while he needed help at first, it is proving to be very valuable.

DR. JOSEPH CARROLL FIELDS QUESTIONS ON VARIETY OF SUBJECTS ...as he meets with Glades residents in the area's second listening post Tuesday.

Hey Kids!! Win Circus Tickets From The Herald

Hey kids, how would you like to get a chance to go to the circus again this year? And we don't mean just any old circus. We are talking about the "Greatest Show on Earth," the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

For the second year in a row, The Belle Glade Herald is making it possible for young boys and girls in Belle Glade to take their parents and brothers and sisters to the circus.

What we want you to do is write to us and tell us in 25 words or less why you would like to take your family to the circus. When you write be sure and include your name, your phone number, your age and the number of tickets you will need.

We will then take all of the entries and judge which ones are the best. They will be contacted by phone and asked to bring the tickets Thursday afternoon, Jan. 17.

All entries must be in our possession no later than 11 a.m. that same Thursday. We can mail them to us at Box 760 or you can drop them by The Belle Glade Herald's office at 425 S. Main St.

The tickets will be good for the Saturday, Jan. 19 show at 11 a.m. only.

We held this same contest last year and everybody who wanted had a really good time. We will print pictures of the winners at the circus in the following week's newspaper.

So hurry up and send in your entry and maybe you will be one of the lucky kids who gets to take their family to the circus.

Twenty-four acts are making their American debut, including The Samel Mixed Animal Act, featuring Erhard and Christiane Samel and their wild white bear, Micko, the Smallest Man in the World, European acrobats and the Khelevi and The Obobki tribes of horsemen presenting the art of Russian Cossack riding, and many more.

Also featured in the 104th edition of The Greatest Show on Earth are Charly Bauman and his Royal Bengal and Siberian tigers; Axel Gautier

Western's own ambulance, also at the scene within minutes, helped carry the injured to the Belle Glade hospital, which admitted 80 men and sent four more on to St. Mary's Hospital for specialized treatment.

Glades General Administrator Ben Clarke said the 80 workers admitted were by far the largest number of admitted at any one time in the hospital's history.

The largest single number of people admitted previous to the accident were admitted following an accident involving another Okeelanta truck on Dec. 16. The hospital admitted 26 patients at that time.

Mrs. Marjorie Dell, Supervisor of Nursing at the hospital, said many of the workers were still on beds in the hallways on the second and third floors Wednesday morning.

"We have a total of 119 patients this morning," Mrs. Dell said. "I imagine that's the largest number we've ever had in the hospital at any one time. We normally have 73 beds."

She said there were still 78 cutters in the hospital, with another two being sent to coastal facilities after they were initially admitted at Glades General.

"The only problem has been space," she said. "I couldn't ask for more cooperation from the nursing personnel. We all worked overtime Monday and we had people volunteer to come in and help."

She said she also called in other, off-duty nurses to help during the emergency.

Clarke said a total of three physicians were called out to help with the injured and he, too, said the cooperation had been good.

"Everything went real smooth," he said.

One volunteer worker at the hospital said there was a total of about 400 case cutters at the hospital at one time Monday, all wanting to visit their friends.

She said there was a continual double line of workers going up and coming down the stairs in groups of five and said "what could have been such confusion was prevented because the workers cooperated fully with hospital workers."

Hospital service personnel, bringing in new beds, found patients being admitted faster than they could bring in the mattresses to be laid in the hallways until beds could be erected for the workers.

By Wednesday, the six cutters hospitalized on the coast were ranging from poor to fair conditions and were located at St. Mary's, Good Samaritan and Doctor's Hospital at Lake Worth.

And meanwhile, a British West Indian Labour Organization official traveled to Jamaica to tell mother of Alpha Morris, a 39-year-old cane cutter, her son was dead.

Carroll Pushes Consolidated Glades School

Glades Central and Pahokee High Schools may be consolidated by the 1975 school year if Palm Beach School Superintendent Dr. Joseph Carroll is able to swing enough support behind the idea.

Carroll broached the idea of consolidating the two schools for the first time in public Tuesday during a listening post held in the Lakeview Junior High School library.

Carroll brought up the subject during a discussion of a proposed vocational education center due to be constructed in the Glades in the near future.

A consolidated high school for the Glades was one of the provisions of the Oct. 18 bond issue which would have provided for a total of $72 million worth of construction in the county.

Carroll's conception of the consolidated school was that it would also include, on the same campus, a vocational education center.

"I want to be ready for the vocational education center when we get ready to build it," Carroll said Tuesday, "and I think we can bring about the consolidation administrative."

He asked some 75 teachers, administrators, parents and students to be thinking about setting up a single high school on two campuses, using the present facilities of Glades Central and Pahokee High Schools.

Carroll said there would be problems but he foresaw "nothing insurmountable" and said he had community support coming about the move by the 1975 school year. Besides getting the area ready for the consolidated vocational education center, Carroll said the move would also make it easier to provide more courses for the combined student body.

West Area Superintendent James Maynor said the consolidation would particularly benefit the students in such areas as foreign languages and other courses which draw limited interest.

The idea is that a small percentage of students in a large high school would be enough to justify offering such courses as German or calculus but that same percentage wouldn't be enough to justify the same course in a small school.

Carroll said the move would also mean the administration would also have to work out a sharing system to transport the students between campuses and longer periods, which he favors anyway.

"I've been kicking this around for some time," Carroll said, "but this is the first time I've brought it up in a public meeting."

"We would have to put together a group of citizens to work out the problem," he said, "and I guarantee the students would have a say."

He said he needed some of the problems could be in the traditional sports rivalry between the two schools and quipped people on the coast could have the most objections.

"If you put the Pahokee and Glades Central football teams together," he said, "they (schools on the coast) wouldn't even want to play you."

Woman's Death Checked

A local deputy sheriff said Tuesday night he is still investigating the death of a nude woman found dead in a sugar cane field about two miles east of State Road 827 Monday morning.

Detective Sgt. Willie Ray Noland said the woman had been identified as Mrs. Marilyn Joann Wilkenson, 39, of Emerson Trailer Park, Lugoff, S.C. She had been an employee of the central which had been up at the old livestock market on SR80 north of town, now known as Jack Tatum Enterprises.

Noland said the body had been found lying beside a natural drainage ditch by the side of a road 2.4 miles east of SR827.

He said Decker T. Green, a low-boy driver for Okeelanta Farms found the body at 9:15 a.m. Monday and reported it to his foreman, who notified the Sheriff's office.

The detective said the body had head injuries but, "the way I understand it, she wouldn't have died right away from those wounds."

Noland said he had been told Mrs. Wilkenson had fallen at the carnival the day before she was found.

Still A Good Idea

Disaster, according to Webster's, is a sudden or great misfortune. Calamity, Catastrophe, Cataclysm; implies an unforeseen mischance bringing with it destruction of life or property or utter defeat.

Disaster is also a loaded labor truck overturning on a dirt road leading to the death of one man and injuries to another 84.

And disaster is also the sudden influx of those 84 injured workers in a hospital with a total capacity of 73 beds.

Efficiency and cooperation was how that disaster was handled at Glades General Hospital Monday following the accident on Okeelanta Sugar Mill Road just before dawn.

Hospital staff members and employees were called in early in the morning, many when they were supposed to be off duty for the entire day, and others called in to see if they could be of help when they heard about what had happened.

Bedding was still being brought in to handle the overflowed Monday afternoon and a number of the accident victims are still lying, uncomplaining, in the hallways on the second and third floors.

No one, according to a hospital source who should know, thought about going home Monday until the job was done, and there were a number of people who had been working the better part of the night before the accident occurred.

For their part, the estimated 400 Okeelanta cane cutters who came to see their friends were "as nice as they could be, very cooperative" according to one source.

Glades General Administrator Ben Clarke said, following a Dec. 16 accident which put 32 workers in the hospital, the hospital had at that time a chance to see how its disaster plan would work.

A better chance was provided Monday and the staff has apparently come up with a plan that works well. A lot of swipes have been taken at the local hospital, and we've taken our share when we felt they were deserved.

But we also believe in throwing bouquets as well as bricks and if ever a bouquet was deserved, this is it.

Glades General Hospital came through with flying colors.

HEY—WHERE'S MY BUCKET?

Well Done

Some men won't give up and apparently Palm Beach County School Superintendent Dr. Joseph Carroll is one of those.

Following the failure of the 1973 school bond issue referendum last October, which would have resulted, in part, in a consolidated high school in the Glades, many men would have quit.

Not Dr. Carroll, and that's good.

He came up with the idea Tuesday, at a listening post session here, of using administrative procedures to consolidate Pahokee and Glades Central High Schools into one school on two campuses.

There would, of course, be problems and many people could be expected to voice objections, some valid and some not.

But the advantages, we think, would outweigh the shortcomings of such an idea.

Providing a greater choice of subject material to the students is one of the biggest advantages to come out of such a move—and let's face it, education is the name of the game, or at least it's supposed to be.

And, regardless of what first impressions might be, it wouldn't be as hard as some think to have one school on two campuses.

Many students could still get by with going to only one facility, but for those who want and need subjects without really popular, this would be the answer. Carroll said he doesn't expect action to be taken in the immediate future but the changeover could be made by the 1975 school year.

It's certainly worth honest consideration.

Pssst; Wanna Buy Some Feelthy Gasoline

Remember back B.C. (Before Crisis) when you didn't have to get into a block-long lineup to get gas, when service stations gave away coffee mugs and what not to build up business?

Remember when you could depend on finding at least one 24-hour station in any town with more than one traffic signal and when they were touting games, sweepstakes, tigers in the tank and other goodies to get your business?

Now, think hard. Remember gas wars? You know, when two or more service station owners started lowering prices faster than they could paint the signs?

Guess what, cousin? Keep it under your hat but I heard the other day at least three gas station, right here in Florida are having a good, old-fashioned gas war.

If you should be heading through Daytona in the near future, stop by the Ocean View American station on South Atlantic Street, or the neighboring Paul's Sunoco, or the Standard station just down the street.

According to a usually reliable source (That's the tag we put on anybody we're not too sure of. An unimpeachable source is somebody we think may be telling the truth) these guys are having a knock-down, drag-out, price-switching gas war of the type to warm your heart.

"We don't have a gas shortage here," American station owner George Hatch said, "we have too much gas. Our allocation is based on what we did last year and last year we had a flood of tourists."

"If there really is a shortage," he said, "then the supplier would have cut us back."

"We have to sell what they give us," Paul Levantine at Paul's Sunoco said. "Our rent is based on gallons and we would have to pay more if we didn't sell the gas."

Now, all this may seem slightly on the ridiculous side to people lined up to get gas...and who may be limited to a dollar purchase, and there'll probably be more than one Belle Glade service station manager eating his heart out. But this is only one more example of what happens when a centralized office tries to run the show for people in different areas who may have different needs and be in different circumstances.

Speaking of shortages, it seems the only thing we're not short on is shortages.

So, one man has come up with a slogan for handing, not one, but all the different shortages.

Use less is the message from Walter Dutch, who is in investments, real estate and insurance over in Boynton Beach.

"If we all pull together," Dutch said in a letter to a number of civic clubs and other organizations as well as businesses, "we will overcome the problem, and the belt tightening will be healthy."

"This will help cool the inflation," he said, "not only that, just think how much money we can all save."

Seems to me the Boynton Beacher may have come up with a pretty good idea of how to beat the various crises. My only objection to the whole idea is how the message comes across if some dumb editor runs the two words together.

But then, so many things seem so useless to me at times.

Well, those pointy-headed do-gooders are at it again.

Would you believe a federal law requiring states to require drivers to use seat belts and shoulder straps whether you like it or not.

It's not enough to pass laws requiring manufacturers to use seat belts. It's not enough to require both seat belts and shoulder straps. It's not even enough to require the type of interlock system crammed down our collective throat by the federal government.

Don't get me wrong. I know the value of using seat belts but this whole trend of a faceless bureaucracy making laws to guard me against myself, and then spending my tax dollars to enforce those laws, just grates me.

A classic example of this is the fact that most of the 50 states have laws requiring motorcycle riders to wear crash helmets while virtually none require those same riders to wear face plates or goggles.

Think about that.

It would make more sense to me to require the riders to wear some form of eye protection than brain buckets.

If some would-be Angel is flying along Killer 80 and wraps his bike around one of those trees separating the road from the canal, that's a terrible thing.

But that would involve just the bike rider. If his brain bucket protects him from getting scalped, fine but if he isn't wearing one he's the only one affected.

On the other hand, if that same character is buzzing along 80 and a flying beetle smacks into his face, it could blind him long enough to cream another motorist...like me for instance.

By the same token, I think the state has a perfect right to protect the lives of others by requiring regular inspections of lights, horns, windshield wipers and tires because those items, if they're faulty, could impair the safety of others.

But the only people in danger of getting wiped out by not using seat belts are the ones not using them and I don't think the state or federal off the record

with Glenn Loney

A troubled reader called me just the other day and took me to task—very nicely done, however, over a story which appeared on the front page of The Belle Glade Herald last week.

It was a story in which the City of South Bay said it was getting great gas mileage off its new Mazda patrol car. The city said that during the same period of time the Mazda used just over 50 gallons of gas while its larger American patrol car used over 500.

The first question our reader asked, and so did we by the way, was what was the mileage on the two cars. He said there couldn't possibly be anywhere near the same amount of miles on them.

As I said, we asked the same question when we were given the story. But at the time the City of South Bay did not have these figures.

Since we have pledged ourselves to keep our editorializing off the front page as much as is humanly possible. We did not make editorial comment on the missing facts.

I did, however, call city hall at South Bay earlier this week and asked for the mileage figures for the two cars. City Clerk Virginia Walker told me she was real busy compiling figures for the end of the month, but she later in the week she would give me a complete rundown on the figures of the two cars.

Next week we hope to give you a complete picture of the gas consumption of the two cars.

Just one closing note. We appreciate calls of this nature. It shows people are reading the paper and reading it closely.

I warned him. But he wouldn't listen to the wise, old pilot.

Bert Ward just had to find out for himself. Even after I had told him he had better limit his flying to short hops in that Cessna 172 of his, he took off for Mississippi over the Christmas holidays.

You would think that racial would have learned to respect my ideas on flying when I won a steak dinner off him because it took him longer than a year to get his pilot's license. A steak dinner was our bet—saying he could get his license within a year and this old battle worn flyer telling him from experience it just wasn't so, Joe.

I had warned Bert that in a small aircraft such as the 172 (four seats—one engine) if you didn't have your instrument rating (able to fly an airplane on instruments alone regardless of how much "weather" limits visibility) you could get into all kinds of jams flying long cross country runs.

I learned the hard way. I took a 172 from Freeport in the Bahamas to Washington D.C. and back. I was only two days late in getting back from that trip.

But I was over a week late in getting back from a trip which started in Freeport and ended in the Turks and Caicos. It wasn't getting there, that was no difficult—it was the getting back that took so long. And even then I never flew the aircraft all the way back into Freeport. I finally gave up on the trip in Nassau and took a commercial flight back.

All of this I had bored Bert with many times before.

"All I'm going to do is fly it right around here," Bert said.

But he strayed from his promise. Perhaps that extra week in Mississippi due to bad weather he wasn't counting on will teach him a lesson.

I think I'll make that two steak dinners he owes me.

Mr. Mac has given up his motorcycle!

Also, another member of my canal jumping club has retired. He said it was because the monster was riding him more than he was riding it.

Too bad, Mr. Mac was a good man. We'll miss him.

The old Indian had the right idea. You can't make a rug longer by cutting a piece off one end and sewing it on to the other.

And that's just what they are doing with daylight savings time. It makes it difficult to get things in the morning for those of us who are used to seeing the sun shining as we come to work. Or, for those sturdy souls who have always got up before the sun this is nothing new. They'll just spend an hour or so extra in the dark.

Sort of the where the politicians who created this mess claim spend most of their time.

governments have the right to protect a person from himself. End of sermon.

Looks like I'm not the only one irritated by the changeover this week to a permanent Daylight Savings Time.

I understated from talking to a few of the kids over at Glades Central who happen to hold down jobs in the afternoons, like our own beauties Miss Bueno, they've really been affected by the decision to start school a half hour later in the Glades.

Now, I'm sure Jim Maynor and his staff, when they decided to start school a half hour later, thought they were doing a favor to the students and students' families.

But when you start messing around with the time, you can't help but foul up somebody's life, and that's my whole point about Daylight Savings Time.

Admitted, the whole concept of hours and minutes, as well as weeks are artificial (that's right, cousin, check it out) but when you have one standard time set up for as long as we have, it might as well be natural days, months and years.

I don't have any statistics at hand proving the time change will save money or not, so I'm not going to get into that argument, although a lot of people have argued both ways.

But it's always seemed to me as ridiculous as the Indian Chief said it was when the famous DST to there squaw cutting one off a blanket and sewing it back on the other end in an attempt to make a longer blanket.

It's just another case of too damned much messing around in our private lives by the gov'mint and I don't know about you but there are a few of us around who are getting tired of it.

Party

Mu Upsilon sorority held their Christmas party in the home of President Aritha Keene.

During the short business meeting Mrs. Keene read a Christmas card from Mrs. Judith Perkins, a charter member of Mu Upsilon who has since moved away. More details of the State Convention in Clearwater were discussed including the theme, events planned, and expenses.

Ways and Means chairman, Donna Schoenfeld reported that the chapter project of selling candy apples and snow cones in front of Babcock's Furniture Store during the Belle Glade Christmas Parade netted us $85. Those participating had a good time and think they could sell even more next year.

Social Chairman, Marsha Oren said Mu Upsilon had good attendance at the Beta Sigma Phi Christmas Dance held at the Country Club on December 8th and everyone enjoyed himself. The Annual Progressive Dinner will be held January 19th with details being worked out after Christmas.

Service Chairman, Mary Deater reported that National Dental Health Week is the first week in February. Members will be visiting local first graders during that week with a demonstration on proper tooth care.

Mrs. Kathie Altman presented a nature program on Bacteriology. After giving a brief historical background of this field of science, she showed members some different media (agar, sheep's blood) in which cultures of germs are grown. Mrs. Altman also had examples of such germs as STAPH actually growing in little glass dishes.

When the business meeting concluded Mrs. Keene played Santa Claus and handed each girl a lovely beaded doll key chain. The gift exchange revealed the secret sisters for the previous year. Nightgowns were the most popular items received pink, blue, long, short, frilly, or warm. Other items received were a cullery set, slush plates, school glasses and pitcher set, Santa candy dish, and jewelry. The members chose new secret sisters for 1974 while the hostess served festive refreshments of cookies, candy and punch.

El título de esta artículo es a nuestro parecer lo que hace a un individuo, que sea apreciado y admirado en el medio ambiente en el que desarrolla su vida y actividades.

La letra H es símbolo de honestidad. Honestidad que nos hace veraces en nuestros relaciones con los demás. No solo en la monetaria, pero en la apreciación de valores y en nuestros caminos de aventuras, los cuales son importantes no solo para nosotros, sino para las demás.

La integridad, nuestro próximo concepto es la cualidad de más importancia en el ser humano. Es esta característica que maneja con la honestidad y sinceridad, de la cual hablabamos anteriormente, la que nos hace respetar y admirar a otros.

La persona íntegra es la que a pesar de las opiniones de los demás mantiene firmemente las convicciones propias, sean estas religiosas.

La integridad de una persona nos es símbolo de que en ella podemos confiar, porque se manifiesta fiel a lo que nos promete, sea en el trabajo que desempeña y sea digno de la confianza de los que comparten su vida, sean familiares o amigos.

La tercera y última letra de nuestro editorial representa la sinceridad.

No hay cosa más hermosa que la de encontrarnos en el andar de nuestros vidas, personas que sean sinceras. Fue aunque no participen de nuestras opiniones sea siempre no se oculte para decirle de ellas.

En la Biblia nos hablan de las Parvois, y Jesús nos pide que no seamos como ellos, que se salían a los lugares mas altos para orar con el que todos los vieren y arrearan que eran pladinos, sin embargo eran hijeritas, deshechos, falta de caridad y pecadores.

Hay muchos que no han aprendido a ser sinceros y creen que las demás no descubrirán su hipocresía o falta de sinceridad detras de la superficie fina de sus rostros.

No hay algo peor de descubrir en las personas es precisamente esta cualidad. No nos lleva mucho tiempo para descubrir a la persona que posee a no esta caracteristica.

Los humanos nos diferenciamos del resto de la creación en infinitos de detalles. Somos la máxima creación de Dios, y por lo tanto las únicas privilegiadas de tener contacto social uno con otros.

Podemos conocerlos, tener amistades, amarnos, etc. Es importantísimo para poder tener amistades duraderas y de valor que seamos HONESTOS, ÍNTEGROS Y SINCEROS. Por una mejor comunidad, por un mejor estado, por una mejor nación y por un mejor mundo, practiquemos el H.I.S.

La actitud de nosotros al enfrentarnos a la vida, tiene mucho que decir de nuestro carácter y farsa en ella.

Por mucho que corramos de nuestros pecados, tarde o temprano nos alcanzaran. Tratemos de destruirlos, antes de que nos alcancen en la eternidad.

ONE MAN SHOW
We choose our leaders for their particular qualities of statesmanship. But that alone is not enough. They need our help and support, our concern, our continuing efforts in behalf of democracy. A successful government cannot be a one man show. Let's combine our efforts to SUPPORT AMERICA!
With talent and considerable practice, it is possible to develop the skills necessary for a one man show. The length and quality of the performance, however, may be something else entirely.
Most of us have found that everyday living requires more than any one of us is able to give alone. To keep things going smoothly we are all dependent on others to some degree. Certainly our freedom is too important to gamble on one man's capability to guard it.
Our greatest heritage embodied in the flag of the United States is the right of the citizen to elect his own representatives and to elect them on the basis of their own merits and not on the basis of party loyalty. It is our duty to elect the best man for the job. It is our duty to elect the man who will stand for the principles of liberty and justice for all. It is our duty to elect the man who will stand for the principles of democracy and the principles of the American way of life. It is our duty to elect the man who will stand for the principles of the American dream. It is our duty to elect the man who will stand for the principles of the American spirit. Missionaries Visit Glades

Two missionaries, one from Nevada and the other from Canada, are meeting with various clubs and organizations in the area discussing The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Sister Thelma S. Maxwell is from Las Vegas, Nev. and Sister Miriam Gross is from Manitoba, Can. They represent the church's Florida South Mission.

"We are a part of a great missionary program of the church," the two women said. They said 17,000 men, elderly couples, young women and widows who are self-supporting and "not soliciting funds or selling anything," are holding the meetings.

They said they meet with civic clubs and organized church groups to "declare that the Church of Jesus Christ has been resorted to the earth for the good and salvation of all mankind."

"We, being called by a prophet of God, urge all to give heed to this message," they gave, as a declaration of their belief, the Articles of Faith as drawn up by the church's prophet, Joseph Smith.

1. We believe in God, the Eternal Father, and in His Son, Jesus Christ, and in the Holy Ghost.
2. We believe that men will be punished for their own sins, and not for Adam's transgression.

3. We believe that through the Atonement of Christ, all mankind may be saved, by obedience to the laws and ordinances of the Gospel.

4. We believe that the first principles and ordinances of the Gospel are: first, Faith in the Lord Jesus Christ; second, Repentance; third, Baptism by immersion for the remission of sins; fourth laying on of the hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost.

5. We believe that a man must be called of God, by Prophecy, and by the laying on of hands, by those who are in authority, to preach the Gospel and administer in the ordinances thereof.

6. We believe in the same organizations that existed in the Primitive Church such as apostles, pastors, teachers, evangelists and so forth.

7. We believe in the gift of tongues, prophecy, revelation, visions, healing, interpretation of tongues and so on.

8. We believe the Bible to be the Word of God as far as it is translated correctly. We also believe the Book of Mormon to be the Word of God.

9. We believe that God has revealed, and that he does now reveal, and we believe he will yet reveal many great and important things, pertaining to the Kingdom of God.

Mrs. McDaniel Dies After Long Illness
Funeral services were held recently for Mrs. Sallie McDaniel, mother of Bank of Belle Glade President E.E. McDaniel, in Marianna, where she had been in convalescent center for the past year and a half.

Mrs. McDaniel was a resident of Grand Ridge, near Seaside. Survivors include E.E. McDaniel Jr. and two other sons, W. C. McDaniel and Robert Earl McDaniel, and two daughters, Mrs. Florrie Watts and Mrs. Omega Durrett, all of the Grand Ridge-Seaside area.

10. We believe in the literal gathering of Israel and in the restoration of the Ten Tribes; that Zion will be built upon this [the American] continent, that Christ will reign personally upon the earth; and that the earth will be renewed and receive its paradisaical glory.

11. We claim the privilege of worshipping Almighty God according to the dictates of our own conscience, and allow all men the same privilege, let them worship how, where or what they may.

12. We believe in being subject to kings, presidents, rulers and magistrates in obeying, honoring and sustaining the law.

13. We believe in being honest, true, chaste, benevolent, virtuous, and in doing good to all men. Indeed, we may say that we follow the admonition of Paul. We believe all things, we hope all things, we have endured many things, and hope to be able to endure all things. If there is anything virtuous, lovely, or of good report or praiseworthy, we seek after these things.

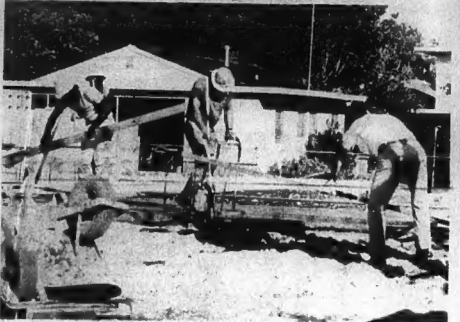

The two missionaries said church services are held each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. in the Belle Glade, Sunday School is from 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. and sacrament service is from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

For more information, contact Gordon Wetzel at 913-853-7418 or Sister Maxwell and Sister Gross at 913-853-9776.

Progress Visible

Construction on the additional wing of the Belle Glade Alliance Church is on schedule according to the pastor, the Rev. Mark O'Farrell. He said the floors have been poured and construction of the walls was supposed to have begun Tuesday. "The only trouble we've had," O'Farrell said, "is in getting steel for reinforcing."

Masonic Services Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian M. Masonic of S.E. Third Ave. in South Bay were held Monday afternoon at Mixson Funeral Home Chapel on East State Road 80.

Mrs. Masonic was 86 years of age. She died Saturday at a Fort Lauderdale nursing care center.

She was a member of the First Church of Christian Scientists in Belle Glade. Survivors include her husband, William E. Masonic of South Bay, two daughters, Mrs. Gail Hahnel and Mrs. Barbara Elliott, one brother, Arthur Redwan and seven grandchildren.

REACH out for God's hand

This Earth

We've all heard that a picture is worth a thousand words. But this photo tells the whole story of mankind.

The barbed wire symbolizes this earth we live in—filled with war, hatred, greed. Transcending the ugliness of this world is the Cross, symbol of Christ's sacrifice for us, the promise of eternal life.

But we don't have to wait till death for a better life. We can do something about that barbed wire. More understanding, and selfless — not selfish — action would do much to purge our world of ugliness.

God's Church is the natural means of resolving discord. Human nature being what it is, heaven on earth is impossible. But improvement on earth is possible — necessary!

Extra care in engineering---
it makes a big difference in small cars.

THE SMALL CAR VS THE SMALL CAR

You can buy a Volkswagen or you can buy a small car that's priced less than VW's most popular model.

You can buy a Chevrolet Nova or you can buy a small car that can beat it on gas mileage.

You can buy a Ford Maverick or you can buy a small car with up to 20 inches more total hiproom.

You can buy a Chevrolet Nova or you can buy a small car that seats an extra person or two.

You can buy a Ford Pinto or you can buy a small car with two-to-three times more trunk space.

You can buy a small car that doesn't offer Electronic Ignition standard or you can buy a small car with Electronic Ignition standard that can save you up to $62 or recommended ignition maintenance in the first 24,000 miles alone!

The answer is a small car from Dodge and Chrysler-Plymouth

Set Your Sight On Kohoutek

NEW YORK (ED) — The most exciting celestial display of the century is lighting up the sky this winter. The phenomenon is Comet Kohoutek, named for the Czech-born astronomer who discovered the giant comet when it first entered our solar system last March.

Because it will be visible while there is still light, photography buffs who want to record this awesome visitor's appearance should capture the spectacle on color film. An amateur with a 35-millimeter camera can photograph the white streak of the comet at its most dramatic against the brightly-colored dawn and twilight sky. Hayden Planetarium scientist Allen Seltzer suggests you'll need the following: an adjustable camera that allows you to vary shutter speed and lens opening; a sturdy tripod; fast film (GAF 200 Color Slide Film is recommended because it will give you a good black sky; the result will be color that is accurate over the long exposure time and photography requires).

With equipment at hand follow these simple steps:
1. Set camera on tripod or steady surface.
2. Open lens to widest aperture. (Normal or slightly wide-angle lenses should be used.)
3. Set shutter speed to "T" (Time) or "B" (Bulb) setting for time exposure.
4. If possible, use a cable release. (A cable release is attached to the camera. It allows you to trip the shutter without touching the camera. Result? No vibration.)
5. Position camera on comet.
6. Focus lens to infinity.
7. Trip shutter.
8. Expose film from between 30 seconds and 1 1/2 minutes, depending on the amount of twilight. Vary exposures over several shots.

Astronomers all over the world are getting ready for Comet Kohoutek. Amateur stargazers can share in the excitement of this spectacular event. But if you want to keep a picture of Kohoutek for posterity, you'll have to follow the above camera measures. Shooting a comet requires attention to detail. Kohoutek, here we come!

Goodlett Sets Speed Limit For Patrol Cars

Belle Glade Police Chief Charles Goodlett said he has established a speed limit of 50 miles per hour on all city patrol cars to cut down on the danger of accidents.

"I feel this is the maximum safe speed," Goodlett said. "Two factors which always worry police administrators is the possibility officers may injure themselves or some civilian." He said one of the factors causing him to make the ruling is the way the city has grown and the number of automobiles on the streets in and around the city.

"I did allow one out," he said however. "Under extreme conditions in order to save a life or to go in the aid of another officer since they operate singly, they can go faster."

"It's up to the officer to make the decision at the time," Goodlett said, "but they'd better have a good reason. I just don't think police cars should go buzzing around town at high speeds."

The edict came shortly after the department received two new police cars in replacement of two others which were wrecked in accidents.

The department has also had four other cruisers ordered as normal replacements.

Drug Program Planned

A program designed to familiarize them with the world of drug abuse is being offered to the public at 8 p.m. Jan. 21 by the Belle Glade Jaycees at the Municipal Civic Center.

The main speaker at the program will be Frank Messersmith, an administrative assistant in the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office. Messersmith will speak to the Jaycees Auxiliary, using a kit made up of drugs confiscated from various drug offenders by the sheriff's office, and will then hold a question and answer session.

Trustees To Meet Here

The Palm Beach Junior College District Board of Trustees will hold its regular January at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 16 in Belle Glade.

Board meetings are always open to the public and a special invitation to attend this meeting has been issued by Dr. Cecil Conley, executive dean of the Glades Center.

The trustees are the policy-making body of the college," Dr. Conley said, "and I am sure that many friends of the Glades Center will be interested in attending a meeting of the board."

The PBJC trustees have always had one member who was a Glades resident at the time of appointment. Currently, Mrs. Homer J. Hand of Belle Glade is this member.

Americans - Laugh - We Had A Funny Year

HARTFORD Conn. Jan. 1—With the energy crisis, Watergate, rising prices and shortages of almost everything, the bobbing for headlines, there was very little for Americans to laugh at in 1973—except themselves.

Consider the following "odd claims" from among the more than 50 million insurance claims payments handled by Aetna Life & Casualty in 1973.

Last June a Massachusetts supermarket was in the midst of a shopping crunch. Checkout lines were so long that they blocked the store's aisles. A middle-aged woman and her daughter tried to cut through one of the queues to continue their shopping.

"Excuse me, please," said the woman to a man waiting in line. But the man didn't care to move and loudly announced his right (and intention) to stay precisely where he was. The two argued back and forth to the immense enjoyment of the other shoppers.

Finally, the woman delivered to a waiter a note saying, "Don't tell me or I'll pour a bottle of bleach over your head!" The man roared back that he would stand fast.

Slowly the woman selected a bottle of bleach from her shopping cart. Metaculously she unscrewed the cap. Carefully she up-ended it on her opponent's noggin.

Mad as a wet shopper, the man chose his own bottle of bleach and bristly performed the same service.

What happened next? Well—Other shoppers joined the fray. They too grabbed bottles of bleach and merrily tossed one another.

However, came to an abrupt halt when the daughter of the woman who began the activities cried out, "Ma, ma! Did you bring your paint?"

Thus did a small child disperse a crowd and bring sense to that warring June morning.

Emergency are nothing new to Aetna claims people. Take, for example, the New York claimant who received a telephone call from a woman who needed information about automobile insurance.

Asked about the insurance's date of death, the woman replied, "Well, my husband isn't dead yet, but he isn't expected live through the night so I thought I might save some time."

Pate also has a head in "odd claims." Consider the Illinois woman who was trapped on her future grave site next to the final resting place of her deceased husband when a 1,100-lb. tombstone toppled over on her. The woman testified that her husband signaled that her husband wanted her to join him immediately.

Heard the one about the go-go girl because the seductive she used to manufacture of pharmaceutical and surgical goods because the seductive she used to secure her pastries irritated her skin. She lost the suit, and the defense attorneys composed a poem to celebrate their victory. One stanza reads:

The dancer who lost
Was sad and disappointed.
But unlike her lawyer
She isn't lost haired.

The Bible tells us that man have dominion over the animal kingdom. Mankind's lack of success in getting this information to the animals is one of his greatest failures.

A Florida sports figure attended a fund-raising event where he was called upon to wrestle a trained bear. He bravely accepted the challenge, but the bear showed its disdain for the spectacle by cuffing the fellow to the floor and sitting on his head.

In Vermont, a porcupine leaped on top of a man's car, a goat pushed off another man's upholstery and a dog died on several popular volunteers at a local library.

In Indiana, a deer leaped through a business' front window, kicked the receptionist and palloped over another employee.

A New Jersey man was feeding the alpacas at a zoo when his glasses slipped off and were swallowed by one of the beasts.

An employee of an Oklahoma riding stable was run over by a tractor load of hay when a horse nudged the unattended rig's drive lever into forward.

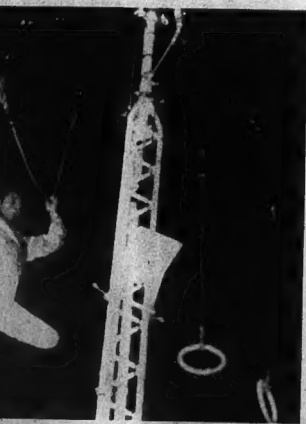

A New Jersey landlord used a bull's artfulness to discipline a tenant. The tenant, who leased a chicken coop, had fallen behind in his rent, so the landlord paddocked the building. Persistent as well as access to his hens by picking the lock. The landlord again retaliated by locking the coop, but not before placing his meatiest bull inside. Once again the tenant returned to pick the lock.

Witnesses to the subsequent event say there is something undeniably comic in an angry bull's sudden appearances in a cloud of chicken feathers. The tenant's comments were unprintable.

Kids do the darndest things. For example, a youngster was rushed to the emergency room of a local hospital. The complaint was that the child had not moved his right arm for one-half hour despite coaxing by his anxious parents.

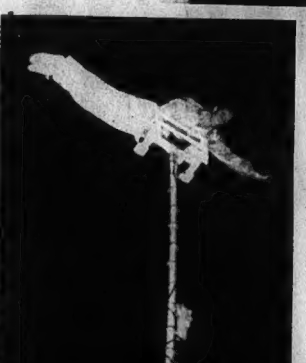

The emergency room physician was able to effect a miraculous cure. When he offered the child some candy, the child, using his right arm, reached for it.

A final curious claims story actually found its claims form. It was filed by a Florida man along with the bills for his wife's propanoy. In the last asking whether or not the claim was related to an accident in the home the man answered, "Yes—in a fit of emotion!"

Up, Up, Away

The circus came to town this weekend and lots of Belle Glade people came out to enjoy it. The circus was sponsored by several of the merchants in the new Glades Shopping Plaza. There were rocket rides for the ambitious and elephant rides for the more sedate. All of this was accompanied with some very exciting circus acts to make for a most enjoyable time.

Lewis Expands Promised Glades Trips To Pahoek

Glades area residents will find it easier than ever this week to get their gripes to the state legislature as Representative Tom Lewis expands his regular Glades meetings to both Pahoek and Belle Glade.

Lewis, who has been in session has been holding monthly open house sessions at the Holiday Inn but said he will be meeting with constituents in the Belle Glade and Pahoek City Halls Saturday.

He will be in the mayor's conference room in the Pahoek City Hall from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. and in the upstairs courtroom at the Belle Glade City Hall from 11 a.m. until noon Saturday.

"I have had several requests to go to Pahoek," Lewis said. "This is an excellent opportunity for the residents of the Glades to meet with their legislator. I hope I have a favorable response to the spirit visit."

Lewis promised to make the regular visits to the Glades, as well as other outlying areas of his district, when he was running for office two years ago. With few exceptions, he has met with constituents every month since his election.

Senior high school students and senior citizens are among those receiving a special invitation to take part in a course in Fundamentals of Music at the Palm Beach Junior College Glades Center.

Mrs. Esther Winger, who will be teaching the class, said she will be using the piano and voice to help teach music, including how to read sheet music.

A total of three semester hours of college credit will be earned by those completing the course, Mrs. Winger said, but added this is primarily a chance for those who have always wanted to learn more about music to do so.

She said the course is required for those wanting to become elementary school music teachers and the course can also offer many hours of enjoyment.

"Students may enroll in the course from Jan. 8 through the 14th," Mrs. Winger said. She said the first class will be held at 7 p.m. today at the Glades Central High School annex in room A-21.

"Senior high school students, if they're earning over a C average," she said, "and are recommended by the principal of their school, may enroll in the course."

Glades residents over the age of 65 may take advantage of a program announced earlier, if there is still room in the class, and take the course for only $4 instead of the usual fee of $30.

There will, however, be a fee of $5 for any student other than senior citizens who registers this week since this is considered the late registration period for the winter term at the center.

Dr. Cecil Conley, the executive dean of the center, said he is now offering a total of 65 classes, more than the center has ever offered in the past and he said more than 400 students have already registered for the winter term as compared to 370 who registered for the same term last year.

"We have 10 classes at Glades Correctional Institution and 12 at Glades Central," Conley said, "as well as a couple at the hospital. The rest are located in the armory."

He said Florida Atlantic University is also offering three classes at the center this term, up from the two classes offered here during the fall term.

Conley said Mathematics for elementary school teachers and music for elementary school teachers are being offered at Glades Elementary school. Both are undergraduate courses and both are still accepting students.

The other FAU course, designed for either undergraduate or graduate students, is Early Childhood Education, which is being offered at the hospital.

"One of the things we're still having trouble with," Conley said, "is that a lot of people in the area still think the only kind of courses we offer is freshman and sophomore courses to be given to kids starting college."

He said they don't associate the center with courses designed to meet the general needs of the community and said a course in electronics which should be of wide interest to the community, had a total enrollment of 10.

"And of the 10," he said, "eight are from GCL. There are only two people from the community who is taking advantage of it."

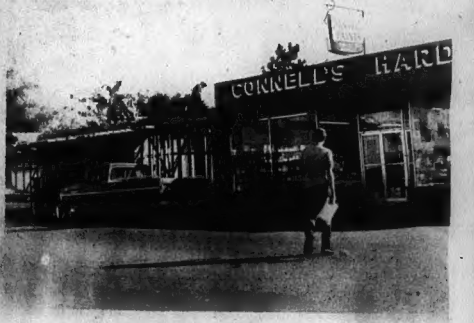

He said the center has offered courses in areas such as small business administration and computer technology, which should be of wide interest to the community, and had few or no students interested in taking them.

"He said he is now attempting to set up a course in diesel mechanics but has reached a bottleneck in finding a building to house the course."

Conley said he has let some courses go this term which would ordinarily not be allowed to meet in an effort to build interest in the community and to acquaint the community with the fact this type course is available.

"We have an average of 14 to 15 students per class so far this term," he said, "whereas we should have an average of 18 to 19. We have a permanent faculty of seven instructors and a part time staff of 19."

Conley said anyone wishing more information on what courses are still available can find out by calling the office at 996-3035.

Work Begins

Looking for more in '74 could be the theme of new construction by private business in Belle Glade as Glades residents turned calendar pages to the new year this week. This addition being built on Connell's Hardware was one of several examples of new construction taking place in the downtown area and is an indication of the need for more space by merchants whose businesses have grown over the past several years.

The Sporting Scene

Sunshine + Greens = Duffer's Delight

by Karen Hansford

"Pure" a word being heard around the world's golf courses these days...and an interestingly popular word at the Belle Glade Municipal Golf Course.

Trouble is, that's about the only word a lot of people in the area know about the game, except the fact of a lot of people spend a lot of time knocking a little white ball around whenever they get the chance.

Les Conway and Don Kilmer, the men shown on this page, are but two of the many golfers in this area who like to take advantage of South Florida sunshine in get out on the course for a few rounds of golf.

Conway is the down to earth kind of guy who can tell many stories and I don't mean fluff concerning different incidents. He lives in South Bay and has played golf off and on for four years.

"Ever since I became too old to do anything else," he jokingly said.

Kilmer, on the other hand, is almost brand new to the game. He is an ex-journalist and sports writer who works on a traveling bookmobile as a librarian. While visiting friends in South Bay, he decided to play a little golf.

This was the first time Kilmer had played on the Belle Glade golf course, and he said the greens were real nice, although the runways had sharp cuts in them where it looked as if an overzealous golfer had missed the ball and knocked out clumps of grass instead.

When asked if there were very many golfers in Belle Glade, Conway, who can hit the ball "a country mile," had a mischievous glint in his eye. "Well, on Saturdays and Sundays, you think there's too many."

He's right. From the looks of that golf course sometimes, it makes one want to clear off some land and build another one right away.

Although Don Kilmer has only been playing for a short while, he was able to give quite a few pointers on golf, such as the problem most beginners have when teeing off. "You shouldn't lift your eyes from the ball as you follow through," he explained. "It messes up your timing."

EX-SPORTS WRITER DON KILMER HAD...had first day on Belle Glade links Monday.

Another difficulty is giving a ball a good, clean hit. Sometimes the bottom of the club skims across the top edge of the ball resulting in a slow roller.

He also illustrated the difference between the open and close stances and the level stance and how it affects the hitting of the golf ball.

Golf has become increasingly popular in the United States since 1888 when the first surviving organized American Golf Club the St. Andrews Club, was founded by a group of men later known as the "Apple Tree Gang."

But golf did not originate here, rather it dates back to the 14th and 15th centuries when the Scots developed an early version of the game just before they invented whiskey.

This version was later developed into modern day golf. Golf wasn't very popular back then. Many thought it to show a lack of masculinity among the men who played golf in 1457 King James II and the Scottish Parliament decreed the playing of golf "as a diversion that attracted men from the more manly sport of archery," which was essential to the defense of the country.

In spite of this, the Scots continued to play golf and it survived through the years. Golf is an old game, but its evolution toward the modern game was slow. Primitive golf balls were very different in contrast to the balls of today.

As modern golf balls are made of a hard rubber core wrapped with fine strands of rubber and covered with gutta percha (a kind of latex), the first balls were made of leathers sewn into a leather case and were known as "featheries."

That change did not come about until the early 19th century. Golf clubs were originally made of a single piece of wood. Later, the wooden heads were made separately and attached to a shaft by splicing. Gradually the club heads were shortened and the principle of loft was used, the first lifting clubs being called "spoens" or "baffins." Then iron heads came into being and in the 1920's, Americans replaced the hickory wood shafts of their clubs with tubular steel, and in the 1960's glass-fiber shafts came into use.

Another phenomenon the '60s brought, although it began way back in the '40s, was the increasing interest in golf women athletes.

The Women's Lib label hasn't been stuck on so many lady duffers as it has in the women involved in other sports. There hasn't exactly been the situation of Sammy Snead challenging Sam Snead to a $200,000 game, a la Bobby Riggs-Billie Jean King, but women are on the links to stay. One local duffaf duffer, who was recently named a District 10 Director for the Florida State Women's Golf Association, and who is in on most of the association's annual tournaments, is Mrs. Sam Knight.

Mrs. Knight said she has been golfing now for the past 20 years and added the number of local women golfers is growing rapidly.

"There are more and more every year," she said. "We have 15 to 18 women playing in every spring and summer in our local group and we compete all over the county in the Palm Beach County Match Play."

the number of professional tournaments for women, as well as for men, golfers and who knows, the way things have been going in other sports, it may not be too many more years before some will be combined.

How does that Walt Disney song go "It's A Small World After All...?"

Just to show you how small this world is the other day I went out to the golf course to dig up some information for a feature story on golf, which is on this page, and I met two of the nicest guys one could ever meet.

Here I was just rambling around on the course trying to keep out of the way of golf balls soaring from every which way and trying to find some likely prospect (s) to get some information from.

"Hey, young lady, I'm not sure if he said it that way, but I prefer to believe it! you better stay behind those trees or you might get hit by this ball!" I heard a man's voice shout.

I looked back and sure enough I had found my men, ones who were about to have the unlucky fortune or having someone to tag along.

Sidling up to one of them I began the conversation with a "Have you been playing golf very often?" opening. It seemed to work because we started talking and they seemed agreeable enough to have their picture taken and answer some questions.

So I tagged along with them from hole to hole and found a lot of information about golf and things in general, and even got hold of an interesting story about deer hunting.

"Would you like a story on deer hunting?" asked one as the two men parted in different directions for their balls.

"Sure," I answered, anxious to get hold of anything related to sports, and took out my tablet.

"It was then I found out his name was Les Conway from South Bay. His daughter is a good friend of my family, and I knew her maiden name was Conway. That name struck a bell and sure enough they were related.

Seems that a week or two ago Les Conway's son, Bud Conway, Joe Randolph of Pahokee, and Woody O'Neal of South Bay went to the Everglades hunting for deer, naturally. They spied a buck from their hunting buggy and proceeded to shoot it.

The buck fell and they thought it was dead so one of the guys jumped down to get it - only it wasn't dead yet.

It started fighting and struggling so they had to bulldoze it and finally overcame it.

"First time I've heard of someone having to bulldoze a deer," said Conway.

I had no sooner marvelled over this when Don Kilmer, Conway's partner, and I started talking. Kilmer is an ex-journalist who is now a librarian with the traveling bookmobile and he was giving me pointers on the art of sports writing.

Somewhat we latched onto talking about football and he admitted to being a Washington Redskins fan. In fact he has a car license tag with "Skins" as his letters.

"I remembered having seen his picture in the Palm Beach Post Times several months back with him showing his tag and I couldn't believe it was the skins person. I told him I had been wanting to see his tag and finally got a chance to take a picture of it."

And sure enough he had those letters on it. I guess he's a bigger Redskins fan than I am.

By the way, Don Kilmer is no relation to Billy Kilmer, quarterback of Washington, but I have a notion he would like to be.

After walking around with them for quite some time, I finally but reluctantly made my farewells and went back to the office where I got more information for my story.

Here I am typing now and humming "It's A Small World After All..."

I don't know about anyone else but I've had my eyes most of the week, full of football. What with all of the bowls in the past couple of weeks on television, reading about who will get the honor of being number one in the national polls of college football, watching the East play the West, the North play the South, it's wonder they don't have the Super Bowl of the East-West game played by the winner of the North-South game.

All that's left now is the Super Bowl and that will be almost it except for the Pro Bowl. And then next summer the champions of the Super Bowl will have to play against the College All-Stars, and then the season begins all over again.

Raider Wrestlers Take First Place

Competing against 11 other schools, Glades Central won first place at the Palm Beach County wrestling tournament held at Jupiter High School. Robert Simpson took fourth place at 127 pounds and Wellington Rolle won third at 133 pounds. Taking home first place trophies for winning their individual weight classes were Ronald Collins at 139, Clarence Brown at 147, Anthony Wilson at 168, and Clark Lloyd at unlimited.

Glades Central finished with 65.5 points followed closely by Forest Hill with 65.5 and Jupiter with 64. The Raiders trailed until the final bout of the tournament when undefeated Clark Lloyd won a 12-1 decision from Harvey Turner of Jupiter giving GCIS the winning edge.

In other wrestling action, Glades Central posted a 12-22 victory over Twin Lakes last Thursday on the Raiders mat. Scoring wins were Perry Smith, Robert Simpson, Wellington Rolle, William Clark, Clarence Brown, Ronald Collins, Anthony Wilson, Clark Lloyd, Wilton Haykin, and Dan Smith.

This week the Raiders are at home on Wednesday against Palm Beach Gardens and travel to J. Leonard on Friday for a two-day conference tournament.

Next home meet is against Atlantic on Thursday Jan. 17. Wrestling matches are held at 7 p.m.

The Glades Central gym, start at 7 and cost only 50 cents for students and a dollar for adults.

Octane Numbers Change

If you are puzzled by the new sticker on your gasoline pump, with an octane number lower than the one you are used to seeing, I will try to explain it.

Two different octane measurement systems have come to be recognized over the years among people concerned with the refining of gasoline and the manufacture of engines that use them.

The first is known as the Research octane number and represents a measure of the resistance of a fuel to engine knock. The second number, Motor octane, is a measure of the engine speed of a fuel at higher engine speeds.

Research octane generally has been the more acceptable indicator of automobile engine performance, but in recent years, Motor octane has increased in importance.

For example, if you have a 1970 Ford Mustang, the octane number for that car is 84. However, the octane number for that car is 84. However, the octane number for that car is 84.

Octane, of course, is not the only measure of gasoline performance. The blend of fuel components and additives is also vital to easy starting, good warm-up, power and economy.

The Bureau of Petroleum Inspection, Division of Standards, tests gasoline to be certain it meets quality standards needed for good engine performance. It also checks lubricants and brake fluids to assure the motorists they are both safe and reliable.

Measuring devices from over 25 years ago used to high volume meters are tested by inspectors to be certain they are delivering accurately and meet other state standards.

Glades Day Round Ballers

The Glades Day School basketball team will wind up the first half of its first year as a sanctioned club by meeting the Moore Haven Terriers at 8 p.m. Saturday here. The Terriers, ranked ninth in the state, is one of four teams which has defeated the Glades, taking them 69-49 when the Terriers were still ranked the third Class A team in the state. The Glades sport a 6-4 record and Coach Schmidt said the only time the team has let down so far this year was when they were defeated 95-41. Their last win came Saturday night when they defeated Palm Cove 104-65. Shown above are, from left, Coach Schmidt, Jim Fitzpatrick.

Boat, Vacation Show Begins

It's full speed ahead for the seventh annual South Florida Sport, Boat and Vacation Show. The show opens a four-day run at the West Palm Beach Auditorium Jan. 10 and continues through Jan. 13.

More than 35 million worth of goods and equipment in boating, fishing, hunting and camping lines will be shown by local and national exhibitors in what national sports promoter William B. King calls his biggest show ever in the Palm Beaches.

King, who also conducts sport boat and vacation shows in Louisville, Ky. and Mobile, Ala., said, "This is most encouraging because it shows the recreation industry believes that the American public continues to be vitally interested in recreation and relaxation despite the energy crisis."

The Sport, Boat and Vacation Show has become one of the top attractions at the auditorium and last year more than 50,000 saw the displays, exhibits and special stage show.

This year there will be four special acts in the stage show which will be held at 8:45 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 3:45 p.m. and 8:45 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Head of the show and acting as master of ceremonies will be Harry King Cole. Cole has spent his entire lifetime as a routine. He performs hilarious boats, medicine shows, vaudeville, stock theatre, burlesque, tent shows, carnivals, night clubs, radio and television.

Doug Hart will present his specialty serving up one of the freshest and funniest comedy routines. He performs hilarious unbelievable acrobatics with superb balance and skill.

Harry "Woo Woo" Stevens, the back playing sensation, will bring his "sing along" act from night clubs across the country.

Jimmy and Cherie Tru will show an unusual high wire act with Cherie climbing a web of rope to the ceiling of the auditorium.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children between 6 and 12, includes the stage show.

Why Young Drivers
Pay High Rates

This will not come as news. As a group, drivers under 25 pay high insurance rates. Why? Because they cause more than their proportionate share of automobile accidents.

Here's some figures on this point. The under-25 group makes up 20 percent of the total driving population, but are involved in over 24 percent of all accidents. They young driver is twice as likely to have an accident as is the driver in the 35-44 age group which constitutes the next largest driving group in the country. Or to put it another way, 41 out of every 100 drivers under 25 are involved in an auto accident each year, compared with 19 out of every 100 driver in the 35-44 age group.

Those higher rates, though, are like aspirin: they work on the symptoms, not the cause of the problem. The only way to reduce the rates and save lives is to cut down on the number and severity of accidents in the under-25 group.

Kautz Sees Clear Skies For Farmers In '74'

Even though the energy crunch, fertilizer shortage and general inflation could cast a gloom over the Florida's general farm industry, one of the state's top farm leaders sees relative fair skies for 1974.

Walter J. Kautz, president of the 20,000 member Florida Farm Bureau Federation said while Florida farmers' pocket books may be a little slimmer than in 1973, the general outlook is still positive.

Indications of the present time are that we will have a good crop year and fair market prices, "the final point farmer said."

Kautz was quick to point out, however, that upward developments in the energy situation, whether and expected inflation could seriously dampen his outlook.

A big freeze in the citrus area for example, could cause a lost turnout in what looks at this time, like another successful year, Kautz said.

He also noted that a bumper crop year for Florida commodities, won't mean a thing if we can't get them in market.

Regardless of how it turns out or who is to blame, this energy crisis is for real and we've got to take it into serious consideration in our planning," he said.

Which we don't force undue difficulty in securing farm supplies for our actual long and running operations, we are concerned greatly about how shortages will affect the transportation industry and, consequently, our ability to get our products to where they're needed.

But a bigger bughouse than looming energy shortages, Kautz feels, is continuing economic inflation.

"It's true that we received higher prices for our products last year," he said, "but it cost us a lot more to produce them and it's going to cost even more in 1971. "Also, many people fail to realize the farmer is the only businessman in the country who buys at retail and sells at whole sale prices," Kautz said. "Our cattle men in Florida are especially getting caught in the squeeze," Kautz asserted. "However," he continued, "we expect cattle prices to level off at a still profitable figure even though prices aren't expected to reach 1973 levels. "While the energy situation, shortages, the weather and inflation are factors to be reckoned with, farmers have a long lived reputation of being hardy people used to dealing with adversity and I don't feel that 1974 is going to present us with anything we can't handle," Kautz concluded.

File Early

What better time to start your tax return than now? The Internal Revenue Service says the best time to file is before the end of January.

It's a good idea to file early because it gives you more time to correct mistakes. Also, if you have a refund, you can get it faster.

Spouses who file early can make the most of the time to check their return for errors. It's also a good idea to file early because it gives you more time to correct mistakes.

Those who wait until the last few weeks to file often find the instructions confusing. It's better to file early and get it right the first time.

Tip for a better trip: Sometimes the time that is shortest is the time that shows a small bill. In fact, it's not the time that shows a small bill, but the time that shows a small bill. In fact, it's not the time that shows a small bill, but the time that shows a small bill.

The Farm Front

by Doyle Conner

Florida is one of the leading agricultural states in the nation and as a result of this, there is a great outflow of products.

But consumers throughout America can be assured that all of these products are checked properly at our road guard stations. Our network of 19 road guard stations across the state comprise one of the better check systems in the nation.

We are very proud of our stations and their inspectors. For one thing, they are persevering. The station near Yulee has been closed only one day since it opened in 1934 and that was due to a hurricane.

The road guard bureau began in 1934 in tents and was called the Florida Control. At that time, there were only six stations, stretching from Suwannee River on U.S. Highway 19 to Yulee on U.S. Highway 17.

Stations stayed open from 1934 to 1951 operating eight or nine months per year, depending on the volume of citrus fruit in 1951, the station started operating 12 months a year.

In its early operation, road guard stations checked only citrus, poultry and egg shipments. It was not until after World War II that vegetables were inspected and during the first season, only celery and strawberries were checked.

Today, the road bureau inspects and records information on citrus and citrus products, limes and avocados, tomatoes, vegetables, watermelons, plantains and chrysanthemums, poultry and eggs, all dairy products, hives and bee equipment, meat, poultry and livestock, including horses, migratory labor and plant material.

As an indication of how the responsibility has grown, inspectors checked 164,937 boxes of citrus in 1944. Last year, they inspected 51,725,764 boxes.

During the past year, the road guard bureau has rendered valuable service on numerous occasions to other law enforcement agencies in intercepting shipments involving various unlawful activities. Among these were instances of non-tax paid goods, stolen merchandise and vehicles, hijacked whiskey, illegal sea food, aliens and marijuana.

Most of these instances involved high speed pursuit and apprehension, often at considerable risk to the unarmed inspector. In addition, drivers offer them bribes to look the other way but the inspectors not only refuse them, but add bribery to the charges.

We take pride in the honesty of such inspectors in resisting temptation although they are our lowest paid inspectors. They have tremendous integrity.

Taxpayers as well as consumers can be proud of them.

NOTE: Alien residents to qualify must also have a permanent Visa Card.

$5,000 ADDITIONAL HOMESTEAD FOR ELDERLY

For every person who is entitled to the regular Homestead Exemption and who has been a permanent resident of this state for the last 5 consecutive years and who is 65 years of age or older as of January 1, 1974. The exemption is increased to $10,000 for taxes levied by district school board for current school operating purposes. (This does not apply to city, county or other tax districts).

WIDOW'S EXEMPTION

Widows are also entitled to file an additional $500.00 widow's exemption. They must have a death certificate or other proof of husband's death.

NON-MILITARY DISABILITY

Any person with a 100% total and permanent disability, or who is legally blind or who is totally and permanently disabled due to the loss of a limb, is entitled to an exemption of $500.00 plus his homestead exemption and must either be currently certified by the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services or two licensed physicians of the State of Florida to be totally and permanently disabled.

DISABLED VETERAN'S EXEMPTION

A disabled veteran who has 10% or more wartime disability, is entitled to an additional $500.00 beyond Homestead Exemption. A "V.A." letter must accompany application, or other acceptable record of disability.

AGRICULTURAL (GREENBELT) FILINGS

All owners or lessees of agricultural lands who desire agricultural zoning for tax purposes on their property must file an agricultural return every year with the Assessor between January 1 and April 1.

TANGIBLE PERSONAL PROPERTY

Includes property such as business furniture and fixtures, machinery and equipment, stock of merchandise, livestock, household goods and personal effects, etc. (Household goods and personal effects of Florida residents are exempt from this tax). Tangible returns must be filed with the Assessor between January 1 and April 1. Failure to file a return will result in a penalty and an assessment will be made as provided by law.

If you have any questions concerning your assessments or filings, please contact the office nearest you by phone or mail. In order to serve you, the taxpayers of Palm Beach County, we have to be made aware of your problems and needs.
